A NEW RITUAL PROPOSED. A new ritual for the order of Elks is probably the most important subject which will come before the grand lodge during the Salt Lake reunion, the sec and week in August. For some time that matter has been under earnest discussion by the members all over the United States. The more it is discussed the more thoroughly convinced become the Elks that a new one should be drafted. The outer world is too well posted. In times past the members have been too careless. They have talked too much for the good of the secret workings of the order. The result is that men and omen who should have not the least inkling as to what the grips, signs and inner workings of the order are, are more or less familiar with them.

The order is growing very rapidly. It is widening in every way, and the members realize that it is due the order that it be made as secret as possible by a complete revision of the existing ritual. That may or may not include are details which must be decided when the matter comes up before the grand lodge. Under the rules of the order no change can be made at this session. The furtherest step that can be taken will consist of the appointment of a committee to revise the ritual, includ ing new signs, grips and pass words. This committee would have a year in which to make the revision, and report its work at the next session of grand lodge, when the report could be adopted as it reads, rejected and a new ommittee appointed, or revised and hen adopted.

There is little reason to doubt but that the matter will not only come up before the grand lodge next month and receive earnest consideration, but hat a revision committee will be pointed, with instructions to report a

THESE ARE COMING.

The Evansville, Ind., lodge No. 116, will send two of the most real live Elks that will browse into Salt Lake and erop grass with the herd which will gather here in August. In reply to the circular sent out some days ago, ask-ing for definite information, the executive committee received the following facts from Secy. H. K. Corrington The delegation will consist of "only wo of us." As to how many will require accommodations, he says: "The entire two of us." They will not require headquarters, for he writes: 'Ou headquarters will be 'at large.' "The special train; as the secretary writes "Will come in with the rest of the bunch." They will enter no contests, and bring no band. Under the cap-tion, "Other information," he says: "Any old place we can hang our hat will be good enough for us." The post script reads as follows: "There will be but two of us, but we will be heard rom. Don't expect to sleep any, so need not bother about us."

DRIVING WITH HUSBAND.

Buring Momentary Pause Latter Tells Her to Jump-She Makes Leap, Resulting in Concussion of Brain.

Death, in one of its most tragic forms, was visited upon Mrs. Elvira Sinclair McEvoy last evening. The lady was driving in a surrey with her husband, fom McEvoy, who is known to every and one of the most skillful horsemen in the state. The team he was driving last evening was one belonging to John Dern and is one of the most fractious brace of steeds that has been driven in Salt Lake for a long time. While turning the corner at East Temple and Sixth South streets the animals without cause or provocation broke into a dead run and had the occupants of the vehicle at their mercy from the beginning. As soon as Mr. McEvoy perceived the hopelessness of attempting to stop the steeds he wrapped the reins around his wrist and bracing himself, rew all his strength back and brought ne animals almost to a standstill. hat momentary pause he cried to his wife to leap and she leaped to her leath. As cool and courageous as have lost her self possession on this fer two cash prizes. One will be for the best exterior decoration, and the occasion and instead of jumping for-ward in the direction the horses were other for the most beautiful and atrunning she faced the opposite directerrific momentum, she was hurled backward and her head struck the arth with a crash that could be heard a block away and which produced con-cussion of the brain, killing her almost instantly. Mr. McEvoy and Clyde, his but it would have been folly for them to have jumped out for the animals recovered their mastery at once were again flying away in their madness. On reaching State street Mr. Mc-Evoy endeavored to guide the horses past a sign board and into a lot in the rear, but they dashed into the boards demolishing them and smashing the front end of the surrey. Mr. Mc-Evoy and his son leaped out of the vehicle in time to avoid the collision and were uninjured. With a terrible ran back to where his beloved wife was lying in the road surrounded by a band owd of excited spectators. The husfread the awful truth on faces that were turned to and he rushed into the throng wildly crying for his wife. Going to where her body was lying he enfolded the remains in his arms and carried them to the home of Mrs. Hepworth on the corner of Main and Sixth South streets. Dr. Root was summoned and he arrived on the scene as quickly as possible but he knew in a moment human aid. The truth was into a frenzy of grief, upbraided himself for telling her to leap and charg-ing himself with the responsibility of her. death. His sorrow was of so virulent a form that Dr. Niles was obliged to remain with him nearly all night long. form that

While he was taken to his home the re-mains of his wife were conveyed to O'-Donnell's undertaking pariors wh they have been prepared for burial. While this fatal event is a crushing low to scores and scores of friends is withering to the husband. For years they had lived together and ery day had cemented more firmly at love which was strong from the beginning. Three children came to them, Maude, aged 18, Myrtle aged 14 and Clyde, aged 11. Their home was in-deed a happy one, love always springing from within and friendship always oming from without, it was a home where everyone was received with an open and bounteous hospitality that was too sincere to be formal.

Mrs. McEvoy was loved by all who knew her, because she was warm in her affections and as true to them as steel. Kindness was one of the car dinal elements of her nature, and he sympathy, which took the form of sub stantial help, was extended to those

In her home life the native sweetness of her nature shorn out with a still more radiant light. The team that carried her to her death, when they were hitched up last evening exhibited such an eager and wild spirit that most any other woman would have been frightened out of the notion of riding daughter, Maude, who was to have gone daughter, Maude, who was to have gone with them, refused to ride behind the horses and her mother gently chided her for her timidity. TWO BROTHERS AND TWO SISTERS MEET DEATH. For years the hand of death seems to have been stretched out over the Sinclair family, of which Mrs. McEvoy was a member, and when the hand has closed and gathered in an additional member it has been in violent form as will be seen from facts that follow. It is nore than passing strange that a brother and a sister have been killed in runaways and that a brother and a sister were shot to death. Kate Sinclair met her fate at the hands of a man who brandished a gun in such a manner that she received its contents with fatal effect. Fred Sinclair, brother of the two girls, was killed in a quarrel in Idaho. Louis Sinclair was the victim of a runaway accident on south State street a year ago, receiving injuries from which he died. These were all children of Peter Sinclair, an old and highly respected resident of this city.

CAMBRIANS AT SALTAIR BEACH

Welsh People Have Biggest Day Of the Year.

AN EXCELLENT PROGRAM.

Hearts Are Thrilled by the Song and Story of Native Land - A Joyful Occasion.

The excursion of the Cambrian soclety to the lake yesterday was the biggest of the year. The sons and daughters of Wales came from all parts of the state and the song and story of their native country thrilled their hearts as they never have been thrilled since they turned their eyes forever from their native heath. The day and its amusements were typical of Wales and it therefore goes without saying that music was the most conspicuous feature of the occasion. That of course is as it should be, for the Welsh people know how to sing and make music on the instruments. Another happy feature of the day was the opportunity it afforded for social intercourse and the talking over of old times. The neighborly and kindly spirit of the Welsh péople loomed up to a conspicuous degree yesterday and it seemed that every one at the resort had resolved himself into a committee of one to see that everyone else enjoyed himself to the fullest degree.

The Cambrian Choral society helped to make the music and it confirmed its reputation of being one of the finest melody producing organizations in the state. The Salt Lake giec club was also there and Prof. Youngdale's enlarged orchestra that furnished music for the dance, the best heard this season. The musical program was under the direc-tion of Prof. Henry Giles, and the day was presided over by Arthur L. Thomas, president of the Cambrian society The signal success of the affair is large ly due to the committees composed of D. L. Davis, Matt Thomas, Thomas E. Jeremy, Nephi L. Morris, T. F. Thomas, H. F. Evans, John James, W. N. Wil-llams, W. J. Lewis and H. E. Giles.

The festivities were opened at about o'clock with a series of "Welsh Melo by the orchestra and the Cambrian Choral society. Later in the evening the society rendered two beautiful numbers in one of which Mrs. Lizzie Thomas Edward had a solo part and in the other the solo part was sung by John James. The latter also did himself proud in his rendition of the famous Welsh song, "The Land of My Fathers." Mr. James surprised himself and his friends in the pronunciation and enunciation of the words, as he sung it in the Welsh tongue. Among the others who delighted the audience with their beautiful solo work were Mrs. Lizzic Thomas Edward, William Phillips, Miss Ruth Wilson, Samuel Wordencraft, little Millie Williams. Wordencraft, little Millie Williams, Tallesin Evans, Mrs. Mary Isaac, D. Beynon Davies, Miss Marguerite Fitz-gerald and Mrs. Mary Hughes. The failure of Prof. An Jones to appear upon the scene with his harp was a disap with an accident that made it impossi ble for him to play. Selections on the guitar were played by Prof. Schettler and the audience was highly entertained by Matt Thomas, who recited some Welsh classics. President Thomas delievered an excellent speech of welcome and an amusing address in the native tongue was delivered by Thomas (Martell of Spanish Fork. Abel Joh Evans was to have spoken but he was unable to be present. He, ent a letter that was read and applauded. This morning the visitors were entertained at an organ recital at the Tab ernacle by Prof. H. E. Giles. The fol-lowing program was rendered: Overture, "Poet and Peasant" (Sup-pe); medley, Welsh airs, (Giles); communion, "Pilgrim's Song of Hope" (Batiste); male quartet; "Old Melody;" "To a Wild Rose;" Pilgrim's chorus (Tannhauser), Wagner; Gloria, 12 Mass union, Mozart).

THE HISTORIC VALUE OF THE WILD WEST.

If we could see before us living representatives of the soldiers who fol-lowed Alexander and Hannibal, or groups of the brass armored and helmet ed legions which fought for the Roman empire under the Caesars, what vivid impression of those ancient times would be obtained. If we could see squadrons of the ragoons who carried the sabre for Napoleon the Great at Wagran Lodi, Austerlitz, the Pyramids or Wa derstand that period of history. If we could have horsemen who were the Britsh uniform as Scots Greys hussars and eavy dragoons on the Spanish Portuguese Peninsula under Weiling ton and helped to finally overthrow the Corsican, how interesting it would be now on the threshold of the twentie entury. Even if the men who follow Marion or Tariton during the America Revolution could come back to life and show what kind of soldiers they were everybody would want to see These thoughts arise on reading th columns that the Wild West is comis Col. Cody is still able to show us genu-ine specimens of the savage Indian races which so long resisted the ad-vance of the white man into the inte-rior of this continent, and what was once known as the Far West. He still has real western cowboys, real cavalry from many European countries, all v erans of recent and present wars. B dians, cowboys and European and As atic veterans will have joined all thother warriors whose deeds emblaze the pages of history. Then the Wi West will disappear, for its realism and truth are its greatest charms.
